NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

TO MOTHERS.

In a country where the rearing of infants is attended with somewhat exceptional difficulties and risk owing partly to climatic reasons, and partly to the difficulty of getting medical assistance in the 'camp,' an apology is hardly needed for publishing a small hand-book on the subject for the use of mothers. In Dr. Pennel's book on Infant Feeding an attempt has been made to explain in simple terms the reasons on which the various rules and recommendations are based, in order that a mother in modifying her child's diet from time to time as required, may be guided by common sense and not by the hundred and one conflicting counsels, with which she will be assailed. On sale at all bookstalls and libraries.

IT IS a well known and deplorable fact that Carnival is the only time of the year when a great many people knock about masked, in order to show themselves, as they really are, thereby making life unbearable to their fellow-beings. Fleeing from the temporary carni-vale of tears, there is no better joy close at hand than to place one self and those dear to one's heart, under the majestic Ombu of the sylvan fields, with a quantity of bottled good will and happiness and a box of the Tit-Bits biscuits. Just try and you will know for yourself. 697 15 30

From a Gentleman in JAPAN
Tottori, Japan, Sept. 11, 1895.
Mason & Hamlin Co.,
146—Boylston St., Boston
Gentlemen:—The piano has had as eventful a career in some ways as any in Japan, I suppose. The steamer it came on was captured and held some weeks by the Chinese. On arriving late in Japan it had to be transported over sundry railroads, and at last carted on a hand-cart 70 miles over two high mountain ranges by terribly bad roads. Since then it has passed a cold winter and hot summer, both terribly damp. In spite of that, and the fact that it has not been tuned since leaving your warerooms, it retains its pitch and tone delightfully.
Yours very truly,

All the papers have most eulogistical articles welcoming your junior editor "Scævela" on his return from Paris; but, although he has returned looking twenty years younger, all made the mistake of confounding him with his worthy father of bank-breaking celebrity.

The Paullier Barili duel has advanced far into the realms of the absurd. After Barili's seconds, Hilaires and Colonel Cerruti, had published their letter stating that Paullier had withdrawn his offensive words to Barili on learning that the latter had no intention of insulting the "señorita" in question. Paullier appeared in print stating that he had withdrawn nothing. To-day the seconds again reassert their previous statement and declare their intention of washing their hands of the whole ridiculous affair. The only possible solution is a quadrangular duel "à la Midshipman Easy.

Lessa wires from your city that he has arranged the Western Railway business with Sr. Medici and has cabled Sr. Cassel in London requesting a slight modification. The President is so sure of the matter being arranged that he has assured the employes of the National Bank that their services will be retained in the new bank.

Professor Zanardelli has been examining the milk from the "tambos" and says that much of it shows germs of tuberculosis and other diseases. He recommends the abolition of "tambos" within the city limits; he has just left for Flores Island to make an autopsy of the body of the sailor who died of yellow fever on the steamer Aymestry and to study the microbes of that fell disease; he will pass several days on the island and later take a trip to Brazil on a microbe hunt.

It is said that the Fiscal of Crime has ordered a summary to be made out against Judge Garzon, accusing him of peculation, prevarication, abuse of authority and partiality in the affair of the Podestá failure. Podestá on his part will demand three million pesos damages. Podestá was declared a bankrupt on the demand of the principal British and foreign Banks.

Nebel and Vila Pelea have assumed their position as liquidators of the National Bank.

The Nacional cites three cases of brutal punishment of soldiers in barracks, each victim receiving from 200 to 300 lashes on his bare shoulders. One of them is a mere boy and has been maimed for life by the cruel punishment.

The Athenaeum Kermesse still continues to score a great success. Yesterday the receipts reached $1,500.

On Sunday fifty cyclists are expected from your city on a visit to their confreres here. A banquet will be given them at the Hotel Baris

M. Boismenu of Buenos Aires is on a visit here.

On board the British ship Grandee a sailor named Kerschmann attacked and stabbed the second mate wounding him slightly. It was thought that the sailor had gone mad, as he had no altercation with the officer, but it has been discovered that the attack was part of an organized plan of mutiny. The commander, Captain Douglass, has made the usual declarations before the port authorities.

Everything is very quiet and I have no occupation beyond teaching my parrot to say "Viva Cuba Libre."

The Uruguay athletic club are joining to hold their sports on March 25th. There are many events and good prizes and it is hoped that the Argentine athletes will come over "en masse" to compete. They will certainly be heartily welcomed. Minister Baring is president and the secretary to whom all communications should be addressed is the well known Architect Mr. Adams.

THE BRITISH NAVY.

The efficiency of the British navy must always be a subject of the deepest interest to our readers, and the very sudden change in the march of European affairs has naturally awakened a fresh interest in the naval power of Great Britain and Ireland. All the Dockyards of the Empire are working night and day to fit out for sea all the vessels that are ready for commission, and in the House of Commons and at the London Clubs where the great representative men meet, the opinion prevails that England was never better equipped as a sea power with vessels which in tonnage, in speed, and in the number and weight of guns can compare advantageously with the navy of any other nation; and in proof of this a comparison has been made of the Channel fleet as it now exists with that of 1870, at the time of the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War. The English Admiralty, then as now, was on the alert, not knowing in what direction the conflagration would break out. In the year 1870 the two best ships in the Channel Fleet were the Northumberland and the Minotaur. Both ships are still in existence, though neither as regards their defensive armour, their tonnage, their speed, or the weight of their guns would have a place now even near the front rank. They were vessels of 10,000 tons displacement, their best speed was 13 knots, none of the vessels of the Channel Fleet at that period could do over 13 knots, and the best speed of some of them was a good deal less; yet even then people thought that England had a fleet which was capable to go anywhere and to do anything, but the melancholy loss of the Captain with nearly the whole of her crew in the Bay of Biscay in not very stormy weather in September 1870 was a warning that some even of the vessels which we all believed to be our best ships were not so seaworthy as they ought to have been.

Within the last quarter century, naval affairs have marched ahead very quickly, and the improvement in the construction and armour of warships since 1870 is simply extraordinary, as will appear by the following brief sketch of the Channel Fleet to-day. Instead of the Minotaur and the Northumberland we have the Majestic and the Magnificent, both ships absolutely the largest and the most formidable battle-ships in the world; both vessels being 14,000 tons each with a speed of 17 and a half knots, so that in the opinion of experienced naval men either of these vessels could overtake and sink every vessel which composed the British Channel Fleet in 1870 without receiving more than a few slight scratches herself. But these two, though they are so far in advance of anything else of the kind in the world, are only the first of nine similar battle-ships, most of which are launched and all of which can be in commission in the course of this year; the Jupiter recently launched at Clyde-Bank, is one of them. In addition to these there are four other battleships in the Channel Fleet:

The Royal Sovereign
The Empress of India
The Repulse
The Resolution

all of them are about 14,000 tons each, and all of them are larger and more powerful than any other battleships belonging to any other power in the world.

In 1870 nobody talked of fast cruisers, to-day they are the right arm of our naval power, there are four of them just now attached to the Channel Fleet:

The Blenheim, 22 knots
The Blake, 21 knots
The Bellona, 18 and a half knots
The Halcyon, 18 and a half knots

Then the Terrible and the Powerful are launched and will be in commission in the course of a few months, both of them by far the largest armed cruisers in the world and both to have a sea speed of 24 knots.

In addition to them, there are four others of the speed of 20 knots, and nine second class cruisers of nineteen and a half knots. Add to these the fleet of torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers, all of a class and speed quite unknown in 1870, and we have some of the points which make our available naval force to-day more formidable by far than any that England ever possessed. But as it has been said with much truth, the best ships count for nothing without the men. Parliament will be asked to vote a substantial addition not only to the ships but to the men of the navy, and there can be little doubt that it will be granted in no grudging spirit when it is understood that they are really necessary to keep England where she is, and where she always must be, in the van of the sea powers of the world.

The following return of seagoing war ships in commission, in reserve, and building, and the naval expenditure, revenue, tonnage of mercantile marine, and value of seaborne commerce of various countries for the year 1894, with a return showing naval expenditure on seagoing force, the value of seaborne commerce (exclusive of interchange with the United Kingdom), and the revenue of British self governing colonies for the year 1894, has been issued as a Parliamentary Paper.

THE TRIP OF THE BRESIL.

CONCERT ON BOARD.

DROWNING OF AN OFFICER AND A PASSENGER.

Montevideo, Wednesday.

After a pleasant run of 21 days from Bordeaux, we arrived this morning—about 20 hours behind time—but this little contretemps was the result of "force majeure" in the shape of a dense fog, which delayed us at the mouth of the Gironde. Calm as legendary lake Nahuel Huapi, the Bay of Biscay was all smiles and, as a matter of fact, the only rough weather—if indeed the term may be applied to a few sportive waves and a fresh wind—was between Rio and Montevideo. On the occasion of the crossing of the Line a concert was organized, and although our passenger list was by no means a long one, the entertainment proved a complete success, and the pecuniary results—for the benefit of the Societié des Naufragés—highly satisfactory. The hurricane deck was transformed into a concert room, and the decorations, which were most tasteful, reflected great credit on the purser, Mons. Massenet (a nephew of the great composer) Mr. Manuel Perez, of the firm of Perez and Cueto, Buenos Ayres, proved himself the Dalmiro Costa of the occasion. He held the piano, while Mons. Plagues performed on the violincello. Madame Levié sang several songs, including a duo with Mons. Delathe. Mons. Numa Tardif was the Tamagno of the fête. He treated us to arias from Lohengrin, Tannhauser and Faust. Mons. Ripert, the sub-purser, played a fantasie which was much applauded. The concert, in a word, was a success. The sale of the programmes had been confided to Mr. Enrique Fitte, of B. Ayres, who distinguished himself by his zeal and activity.

What with musical evenings and games of all kinds, we managed to avoid that monotony which dulls the keen edge of enjoyment and which the ocean itself, in its everlasting sameness, communicates to all things that float on its bosom. Indeed we had all the elements of a pleasant journey—fine weather, a calm sea, an accessible commander, attentive officers, excellent service, tip-top cuisine, etc., etc. Little did we dream that a veil of sadness was destined to be thrown over the enjoyable features of the trip. On our arrival at Rio several of the passengers went ashore, in spite of a warning posted up in the saloon, for the heat was simply terrible and the yellow fever news anything but satisfactory. Our violencellist Mons. Plagues, who was afraid of nothing, went ashore and persuaded his friend Mons. Alexis Paul, one of the ship's officers, to accompany him. Well, they did not catch the yellow fever, but they were drowned within forty yards of the quay. It appears that they had taken a boat to convey them to the Bresil, and when within forty yards of the shore a little tug ran into their boat. Neither Mons. Plagues nor Mons. Paul could swim, and it is related that one gripped the other by the leg, and both went down, while a score of people on the quay idly watched their drowning efforts. The boatman, who could swim, saved himself....

Mon. Plagues was the only support of an aged mother. Mons. Paul belonged to a well to do Bordeaux family. We at once raised a subscription, which the Commander will forward to Mons. Plagues's mother. The captain of the fatal tug was seized by the authorities and placed under arrest, and we were told that this was by no means the first accident of the kind caused by his tug.

Several ladies on board the Bresil burst into tears when the news of the double death was made known, and the sterner representatives of humanity gave vent to their feelings in energetic comments on the indifference of the on lookers on the quay.

In sadness, I might almost say indignation, we sailed out of Rio, and on the following morning a Mass for the dead was celebrated on the hurricane-deck by Father Rouzeau, of the Order of Lourdes, who has come to take possession of a grant of land (in Barracas) made by Mr. Carlos Guerrero, with a view to starting a college. The ceremony was a most impressive one, and all the passengers were present.

I must not close this brief sketch of our trip without relating an extraordinary incident which marked the first part of our journey, and which will go to show that the stuff of which heroes are made has not completely disappeared from this sublunary world. Amongst the passengers from Bordeaux was a slim and unassuming Swiss, whose highly moral tone of conversation soon awakened in his intercourse with his fellow-travellers a chaffing tendency that made him the butt of many a joke. One morning we missed him at his accustomed place at table, and on enquiry we were told that, touched by the sickly condition of a third-class passenger, he had simply given up his own luxurious cabin to the suffering person, while he took up his quarters amid the unsavoury surroundings of the prow. This act of generosity and self-sacrifice roused the admiration of all. Many at first refused to believe in the possibility of a transaction of the sort, but all doubts on the subject were soon dispelled. This Swiss gentleman, who landed at Dakar, is a Protestant missionary—the Rev. —— Boile, and we learned that his destination was St. Louis—twelve hours by rail from Dakar.

DEATH OF MR. HUGHES.

Adios Don Juan! Yesterday morning at 11 a.m., this most respected Irish resident died suddenly at his quinta in Caballito at the ripe age of 73.

Don Juan Hughes was about one of the best known Irishmen in this country, esteemed and respected by all, and widely connected with some of the first native and Irish families in the Plate. He came to this country a mere boy, when everything in Buenos Aires was very different from what it is to-day. Mr. Hughes was born in Newry, and on the death of his father, the family removed to Blackrock near Dublin, where he passed his childhood. The family moved in the very best Dublin circles, and Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, then plain Mr. Duffy, the editor of the Nation, married his eldest sister, and Mr. Hall, a Liverpool merchant and partner of Mr. Proudfoot, married another sister. An opportunity offering, deceased was sent out to the Plate, where he settled for life. He passed many years as a clerk in Montevideo, and then came up to Buenos Aires, where he embarked in business and married the daughter of Sr. Vernet, ex-Governor of Falkland Islands. The deceased married Miss Vernet in 1851 and had three children by her, only one surviving, Mr. John Hughes, the estanciero in Rojas. His first wife died in 1856. Mr. Hughes was one of the oldest members of the Club de los Estrangeros, being over 50 years a 'socio', and for the last few years was one of the few members "jubilados", according to the bye laws of the Club. Even in those early years Mr. Hughes began to figure as a representative foreign resident, and we find his name in the annals of those days at all meetings &c. connected with foreign interests and institutions.

Shortly after the death of his first wife, he became a saladero broker and soon rose to be the very first in his gremio. Dn. Gregorio Lezama, who was the richest man in the Republic at that period, did all his business through Mr. Hughes, as also Mr. Dan Gifford, who was then one of our largest exporters of salted hides, and the great exporting house of Proudfoot Hall and Co. in Montevideo was represented here by deceased. In the year 1859 Mr. Hughes married Miss Brown, the eldest daughter of the late Don Patricio Brown, who was at that time one of the largest saladeristas in the Plate. About this time Mr. Hughes bought a large quinta in Flores and settled there, and the quinta soon became one of the most renowned in Buenos Aires for its hospitalities. Mr. Hall came down from Bella Vista and in company with Mr. Peters, joined Mr. Hughes in business and opened a "barraca" on the Riachuelo. The firm did a large business not only as "barraqueros" but also as hide and produce brokers; and about 30 years ago Mr. Hughes took it into his head to make a trip with his family to his native hills around Newry. He landed at Glasgow where he was welcomed by scores of old River Plate friends. Mr. Proudfoot gave him a grand banquet: around the table were some of the magnates of Glasgow. Mr. Hughes's health was drunk with three times three, and when called on for a song, he fairly electrified the company by singing in his rich, humourous style

"The night before Larry was stretched"

Even to this day in Glasgow that song is remembered by old Glasgow River Plate men.

The sober, steady Scotchmen were astounded to find a man who had spent so many years of his life in the River Plate with such wit and humour, and the only thing that surprised us was that they did not confer on Don Juan the freedom of the city of Glasgow, such was his popularity in that city. He passed over to Ireland and visited the scenes of his childhood in Newry.

Whose loved recollection embittered the present compared with the past.

In Ireland they received him with open arms. He revisited White Hall, Black Rock, Dublin, where in early "childhood with his brow untraced by care," he played. In London all his River Plate friends leonized him, and he returned to the Plate after a good round tour to begin again and make another fortune. It may be said of Mr. Hughes that he made three large fortunes in the Plate. His son by his first wife inherited the great business talents of his father and has made a large fortune in the estanciero business. He had a numerous family by his second wife, and his eldest daughter married Mr. McAdam, one of our leading exchange and money brokers. Only a few years ago he made another trip to Europe where he lingered for over 2 years, and had the pleasure of meeting his distinguished brother-in-law Sir Charles Gavan Duffy. He passed the winter of 1892 with his family at Nice, and returned to the Plate looking stronger and healthier than ever. But the hands of his life glass were fast passing away, and only a few days ago Mr. Quirno met him in the Flores tramway and thought he remarked a great change in him. Yesterday morning he rose at his usual hour, walked about his quinta, conversed with the domestics, and at breakfast hour when called they found him lying on his bed and apparently sleeping. He had passed away.

Mr. Hughes was a great reader and a very well informed man; his memory was so retentive that he could repeat lines of poetry he had learned when a child. He took a great interest in Irish politics, and was a Repealer, Home Ruler, Parnellite and Gladstonian. No Englishman in the River Plate was better up in English politics than deceased. He read everything and was all his life a staunch liberal. When the St. Patrick's Society was started in this city he took a most prominent part in supporting it and pushing it ahead. He passed some years of his early life in Paraguay and Corrientes, where he made a great deal of money in timber and hides and produce. The death of Mr. Hughes snaps another link in the chain that still holds us to a past so dear to all old British residents in the Plate. We shall all miss Don Juan and his merry, jovial countenance; and to his sorrowing family we express our greatest sympathy and weep with them tear for tear at their irreparable loss. Don Juan leaves a family of 7 to lament and caress his name.

STAND-BY O'GORMAN'S LETTER.

INTERNATIONAL GOSSIP.

Montevideo, Feb. 25th.

The last mail has brought me a batch of letters and papers from New York and London containing a lot of gossip which I shall endeavour to boil down to suit your tired digestion. The chief topic at the time of writing was the marriage of Oliver Perry Belmont and Mrs W. K. Vanderbilt, mother of the Duchess of Marlborough. This marriage, though not unexpected, has given rise to a good deal of talk and raking up of old gossip. Major Pendennis exhorted his hopeful nephew to cultivate the study of genealogy as a necessary social qualification. Genealogy is not of the first importance in America, being mainly fabulous. What is necessary to the social neophyte or veteran in New York, London or Paris is a profound knowledge of the ramifications of divorce. Who has been divorced from whom, and reunited with so-and-so are matters which anyone who wishes to be in the swim must know thoroughly at his finger tips. An enterprising publisher would make a fortune by editing an "Elite Dictionary of the Divorced," but it would require the issue of a fresh edition or supplement every month. What a series of transformation scenes all this Smith-Vanderbilt-Belmont-Whiting-Rives-Yznaga-Tiffany-Wright-Zichybusiness is! Here are a lot of people, all except Count Zichy, intimate friends and members of the same social set, all divorced and remarried from and to each other within seven or eight years.

To make the matter clear one must begin at the beginning, or somewhere near it, but it reads very like the story of the house that Jack built. Once upon a time there were several Misses Smith of Mobile, Alabama, all pretty and charming girls of good family. Alva, the oldest, married W. K. Vanderbilt, of millionaire family. This was in the days before the Vanderbilts, despite their millions, had attained the position which they now occupy in cosmopolitan society. The second daughter married Fernando Yznaga, of a distinguished Cuban family, Yznaga del Valle, well known in the inner circles of New York society. His eldest sister Consuelo married Lord Mandeville, and is now Duchess of Manchester, the Dowager Duchess of Manchester, her mother-in-law, on the death of her husband, having married the present Duke of Devonshire, better known in politics as Marquis of Hartington, a marriage which surprised nobody in London society. Another sister, Natica Yzanaga, married Sir John Lister Kay. Both sisters are still famous for their beauty. Oliver Belmont is a younger son of the well-known New York Banker who married a daughter of Commodore Perry, the opener of Japan. Papa Belmont was an offshoot of the Rothschild family, and their representative in New York. Of course, he was wealthy; he was also clever, and after his marriage with the daughter of a distinguished family of colonial origin, they were leaders in New York society until along in the seventies, when newer and richer elements came to the surface. His eldest son, Perry, became famous as a congressman, for his baitine of Blaine about the Chilian affair in the eighties. He was afterwards U.S. Minister in Madrid and had as Secretary the present U. S. Minister to Chile. Oliver Belmont was an ensign in the navy, married a Miss Sally Whiting of New York, and resigned from the navy. He was sadly handicapped by a mother-in-law and two old-maid sisters-in-law and also resigned from matrimony after a year. His ex-wife afterwards married George Rives, a widower, who adopted her child by Belmont. Thus far the marriages. Now come the divorces, and marriages. First Mrs. Fernando Yznaga divorced her husband and married a Mr. Tiffany. Then Yznaga married Miss Mabel Wright of New York, the most beautiful blonde I have ever seen. After a wild success in New York and London she went to South Dacotah with her father and obtained a divorce. She has now married Count Bela Zichy of the famous Hungarian family of that name, secretary of the Austro-Hungarian Embassy in Washington. His cousin, another Count Zichy, ten years ago in Madrid cut a wide swathe as a brilliant young secretary of the Austrian Legation. He has since married a daughter of Count Wimpfen, Ambassador at Rome, and settled down in Paris. Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt has now married Oliver Belmont. It is reported that when Vanderbilt heard of it he said: "Poor Ollie! I pity him." also that on the same occasion Mrs. Rives sighed: "Poor Alva! I pity her! However, Belmont has about $4,000,000 and her twenty years as a Vanderbilt have left his wife well-to-do, so that they will begin matrimony with about £80,000 a year to keep the wolf from the door. It is now rumored that W. K. Vanderbilt will wed the Duchess of Manchester, née Yznaga, and color is lent to the rumor by his intimacy with his ex-brother-in-law Fernando Yznaga, and also by his having lent the Duchess his yacht Valiant to convey the body of her daughter who died in Rome last year. Furthermore, it is remembered that in the winter of 1882-83, when the Duchess, then Lady Mandeville, was visiting at the Vanderbilts in New York, Mr. Vanderbilt's attentions to her so excited the jealousy of his wife that his Papá had to intervene to smooth matters over, and Lady Mandeville's visit ended much sooner than her invitation required. I doubt, however, whether the Duchess of Manchester will care to abandon her strawberry leaves to become plain Mrs. Vanderbilt, despite the millions. Doubtless some other "modus vivendi" may be found. When, as a girl, she was engaged to Mandeville, his own mother wrote Mrs. Yznaga certain physical facts in regard to her son, of such a nature that they would have caused most girls to break off the match, but Miss Yznaga's reply was "I don't care if he is the devil himself, with horns, hoofs and tail. If I live I shall be Duchess of Manchester". She has always resided in England. Her husband, "un pauvre sire", came occasionally to New York where he was regarded more or less as an "atorrante." It is said that the Duchess of Manchester will visit Newport next summer with the young Duke, who is now about twenty years old, with the idea of doing as well for him in the American heiress line as Marlborough has done. It is a pity that Marlborough has prevented her marrying W. K. Vanderderbilt and at the same time marrying her son to his daughter. It would have made a charming and comfortable family arrangement.

The Comtesse de Castellane has in her possession a magnificent coronet which once belonged to Queen Isabella of Spain. When Queen Isabella was exiled, she carried with her all the jewels she could lay her hands upon, including a crown of gold set with some of the finest emeralds, rubies and diamonds in the world. Not so very long ago a Spanish grandee, Prince del Drago, grandson of Queen Isabella's sister, arrived in the States with this wonderful crown for his sole fortune. It had been given him by his great aunt, and he unblushingly announced his intention of selling it to the highest bidder. The late Jay Gould bought it for $80,000, and this is how it happened to figure in his daughter's "corbeille" when she married the Comte de Castellane. Should she wear it at any function which the ex-Queen may honor with her presence. I wonder if that stout and over-giddy lady would know it again, or with what feelings she would see it adorning the brow of a woman of inferior birth.

This Prince del Drago lived at Rome. He is a grandson of Queen Christine (not the present Austrian Queen Christine, widow of Alphonso XII) by a second husband of anything but royal birth. Another of her daughters was the Marquesa de Camposagrado, one of the prettiest and most charming women in Madrid. Del Drago came to Madrid in 1884 in hopes of marrying some wealthy Spanish heiress, but found that such birds were rare. He also wished to dispose of his famous crown to King Alphonso XII. To strangers he appeared very frigid and "poseur," but at bottom was a very good fellow, troubled only with youngness. I travelled about with him for a time, visiting out of the way corners and monuments in Spain and always found him a jolly travelling companion. No gloom was cast on our trip by the fact that he found tombs of his ancestors everywhere, particularly at the Escorial. I advised him to take his crown and his hand and title to America, where he could dispose of them to better advantage and with more satisfaction to himself than anywhere else, and, I see by the newspapers that, though tardily, he has taken my advice.

MAR DEL PLATA.

VICISSITUDES OF A FAMILY HOUSE HUNTER.

When the jaded denizen of Buenos Aires, with nerves unstrung and brain wearied with nine or ten months of business or domestic worry, comes to this place in search of a haven of rest for the summer, i.e., a furnished house, he will find that the quest is not all "beer and skittles." One of our subscribers, who has been and still is there, relates his experience as follows:—

Yes, Don Eduardo, this Mar del Plata, with its sad sea waves ever refusing to tell us what they are saying, with its salted ozone and tonic-laden powers for physical restoration, is all very fine, but we come down here for quiet and rest as well. I now think, however, that our experience here has put us in training for sleeping a siesta in a Clyde shipbuilding yard, but the rent is paid in advance, and I suppose we shall have to see the season through and await our return to Buenos Aires, where, with the sedative provided by tram horns and itinerant organ grinders, we may hope to reestablish our shattered nervous system.

When I came down before the regular season began, I looked at about a dozen different houses. This was rejected on account of its being situated really too far from the beach; that, because it was a street of too much traffic; the other would do but for the four barking curs alongside; and the fourth, because it was cheek by jowl with the butcher, and you can get all the flies you need in this town to visit you without taking the trouble to look for them. The fifth was rejected on account of the next door neighbour's owning a piano of the vintage of 1845, which only ceased from troubling when the weery players were at rest.

At last I found a house which appeared to possess all the attributes of a quiet home; as I entered the gate with the laudatory land-lady, it is true that I passed a couchant dog, whose appearance suggested midnight baying and protestations to the moon, but at the time he was sound asleep. (I have reason to believe since that in expectation of my coming he had been chloroformed or hypnotized for the occasion) and as he looked about as innocent and guileless as a crockery dog on a lawn, I decided to risk him. As I stepped into the patio I eyed with suspicion the two metre wall which separated this from the adjoining house, wherein, if the neighbors choose to be noisy or otherwise troublesome, they might be as well in the same house with you at once, I enquired as to the character of the family next door. Were they quiet people? Did they keep a baby carriage? Was that galpon a stable? Did they keep hens or peacocks? etc. etc. Words and protestingly upraised hands on the part of the good landlady failed to sufficiently eulogize the transcendent virtues of the family next door as quiet neighbors—"Pero Señor una familia lo mas amable." I made up my mind before I left that they were almost Lotus eaters or given to the morphine habit. I looked around the garden, a Sleepy Hollow calm seemed to brood over the scene; a number of plants and trees which might have been poppies and Upas trees hardly stirred in the slumbrous air, and among their leaves bees buzzed and beetles droned—"a veritable garden of sleep" I said, and I took the house at once.

So the first instalment of the rent was paid and in due time we moved into the house and the final payment was rendered. Oh, that fatal final payment! Talk about the effect of the kiss of the Fairy Prince upon the Court of the Sleeping Beauty! Well! Noises which had concealed themselves in the most unlooked for places started upon every hand, Hens began to cackle and kept at it all day whether they had laid eggs or not. Off came the pneumatic tires from the neighbour's baby carriage which went clattering along the patio making as much noise—well almost—as a Southern railway luggage truck and scurrying along the platform to the van. An asthmatic pump which I am sure had never been oiled since it left the factory also developed itself alongside and gurgled and gasped for water at frequent intervals of the day and night. And my friend the crockery dog! Et tu Brute! This apparently amiable and lethargic animal turned out to be the very embodiment of restless energy, a regular bully and fire eater among dogs, and a great sufferer from insomnia, but a most accomplished brute, a good linguist, understanding and barking not only the various parent languages used by the dogs in the neighbourhood, but their dialects as well. He was a master of vituperation and abuse and could load one sentence with more sarcasm, defiance, scorn, invective and repartee when addressing the Basque dog of the milkman—the French poodle of the baker—the Italian greyhound (and something else) of the butcher, than any dog I ever heard, and he did all this showing off preferably at two or three in the morning, and would insist upon the whole family waking up to listen to him. He was a very vain dog on account of being so talented, and thought himself quite as high-toned as Cerberus, even if he didn't have so many heads. Anyhow, I'll bet he could make more row than Cerberus, even if he were barking with all his mouths at once.

I think next year, if I come here, I shall go to a hotel, where the nuisances are of a nature you are prepared for, and can face or live down, or if I can find a walled-in chacra I will hire it and over the gateway put the legend as a warning to dogs, hens, ducks, baby-carts and contents, etc., etc.

LA PLATA.

(From our own Correspondent).

Feb. 27th.

Mr. Roberts the Manager of the Western Railway accompanied by Mr. Brian the legal representative, held to-day a long conference with Dr. Frers respecting the Company's proposal to erect two grain elevators in the Port. Nothing definite was arrived at as the Board in London has not yet answered respecting one of the conditions insisted on by the Government. Much was also said in reference to the necessity of building additional sheds for the grain which in thousands of bags is daily arriving for export. Another meeting is to be held within a few days.

The Agricultural Inspectors start on Saturday to collect the statistics already asked for respecting the threshers in the Province.

THEATRES.

The Zarzuela opened, for the winter season, last night, with an excellent company under the management of that first chop comic artist, Rojelio Juarez. The pieces given were "El Señor Baron" and "Dolores.... de Cabeza," which is a capital skit of the opera "La Dolores." The great attraction, however, was the debut of Mr. Gressi and Mlle. Roux, and La Bella Geraldine. The two first named are excellent exponents of the art of thought reading, or rather, transmission of thought, as the thought is transmitted by Mr. Grossi to Mlle. Roux, without contact of any kind, and she immediately carries it through. Although received very coldly, the admirable manner in which every experiment was manipulated caused immense applause, and at the conclusion, both artists were called for more than once. La Bella Geraldine is a trapeze performer of the very first class, and caused a great sensation by the ease and dexterity with which she performed the most difficult feats. She is remarkably pretty, has a splendid physique and is exceedingly graceful. She will shortly appear in the Serpentine Dance, at which she is "facile princeps."

In consequence of the failure of the electric light, there was not any performance at the Casino last night, but all tickets bought will be available for to-night, when Mlle. Holl-Holl will make her debut.

CRICKET.

The following will represent the Flores A.C., in the Cricket match v. Rosario, at Rosario on Sunday next:—B. J. Dillon, R. W. Rudd, B. B. Syer, K. Moscrop, A. Boyd, J. V. M. Knox, G. A. Thomson, A. Palmer, B. G. Henderson, J. B. Faram and D. King. Players are advised that a special coach has been reserved on the F.C.C.A. train leaving Central Station at 9 p.m. and are requested not to take out tickets.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Affairs at home and abroad were nice and lively yesterday. The Gold Eagle showed that he does n't require a coffin just yet. The Chief of Police got the long threatened sack, and a good many citizens, some of credit and renown, others of neither, clapped their hands when they heard the news. All the foreign communities are anxious to see the post again given to Dr. Donovan, who was one of the best Chiefs of Police the city ever had. The news from London was grand. The Venezuelan question is settled; and at a grand banquet, on Wednesday, Mr. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty, spoke "urbi et orbi", like the Pope, and gave the world to understand that Great Britain will have nothing to do with alliances with any Power, big or little, but will fight single-handed for her interests, if any one is rash enough to tamper with them. Bravo! Goschen. There is a ring of old times in this.

The mail brings the pleasing news that Mr. Murdoch, the Argentine Consul at Dundee, has been elected a member of the Geological Society. Mr. Murdoch is a celebrity in this line, and his election honours the G. S. as much as himself. We offer him our congratulations.

Our readers will find the best laugh they have enjoyed for a long time in the excruciating house-hunting experiences of our Mar del Plata Secretary, Dr. McNally. We have a violent pain in our side from excess of cachinnation.

There was no rousing or any other kind of news from Chile yesterday; but a morning colleague promises "novedades de importancia" from that quarter in a few days, so we live in hope.

Hurrah! Three cheers for Mr. Thursby! The Public Works Department has approved his plans for an Electric Tramway to Flores, and soon we shall be flying to and from the Village of the Plain (where there are no plain girls) in fifteen minutes. The Buenos Aires tram horse will soon be "jubilado" for good, and the poor brute has certainly earned a rest.

We are requested to correct a statement in a morning contemporary to the effect that the late Dr. Rodman of Chascomus died from an overdose of strychnine. The official analysis of the stomach proved that the quantity of strychnine found (0.0005 gme.) was not sufficient to poison the deceased.

We are invited to the Grand White Picnic on Sunday next at green Lomas de Zamora, and return our best thanks for the invitation. All the ladies, at least the girls, are requested to dress in white. Each family must bring its own knives, forks, cups and spoons. Dr. Molina Arrotea's splendid quinta is the "locus in quo."

We have received the following atrocious play on words from a correspondent who is, naturally, ashamed to send his card.

"Dear STANDARD:

"Can you guess why I have no use for an English dude?"

Yours truly,
American Subscriber.

The election news from La Plata yesterday was simply flabbergasting. Nothing less than that all the electoral registers in the Queen Province have been tampered with. We note a prodigious lot of electioneering literature at present in the columns of allow Argentine colleagues. In fact, supernatural activity and "entusiasmo" is observable in all the factions.

We received a telegram from Tucuman yesterday announcing the murder of Mr J. H. Thomas, an Englishman, near Lules. The body was found covered with wounds. The police are making vigorous search for the murderer and have made several arrests.

The death of Mr. John Hughes caused general sorrow yesterday in the English-speaking community, in all sections of which he was not only respected but generally liked. We drop a sincere tear on the grave of our much respected friend. The funeral takes place this afternoon from his late residence in Caballito. Carriages can be taken at the undertaker's (Mr. Deck) 547 Calle Lavalle, up to 3.30 p.m.

The news yesterday about the purchase of the ironclad Varese was that the builders ask £800,000, and the Argentine Government ask for some reduction. Our gallant friend Captain Martin Rivadavia has been commissioned to settle the matter.

Our American cousins have a few musty old laws on t heir Statute books as well as John Bull, and one of them has now been raked up against our go-ahead colleague Slippery Joe Pulitzer of the New York World for having telegraphed to the Prince of Wales and Duke of York in the height of the Venezuela ruction. A contemporary in the Empire City says:—"Some old clerk in the State Department has done a public service by brushing the dust from a section of the Revised Statutes, adopted in 1799 but never repealed, that directs the punishment of a fine of $5,000 and a term of imprisonment from six months to three years to be imposed upon any citizen that carries on any correspondence with the officers or agents of foreign governments in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States. This is an old law that everybody would like to see enforced with Rooseveltian rigidity upon the ex-Hon. Joseph Pulitzer, who has been carrying on a correspondence with the Prince of Wales, Lord Salisbury and other officers or agents of the British Government in relation to the Venezuela dispute, in order to defeat the measures taken by the Government of the United States to uphold the Monroe doctrine. The wording of the section is so clear and comprehensive as to convict slippery Joey from the files of his own paper without the possibility of explanation or defence. I hope that the United States District Attorney will have the backbone to issue a warrant immediately and bring the case before the Grand Jury. It is a great satisfaction to all good citizens that Pulitzer's insolent violation of the sentiments of patriotism is also a flagrant violation of tbe law, and that he can be punished by legal imprisonment as well as by popular contempt. I do not believe that there is a man outside of the World staff that will go bail for Joey if the warrant be promptly served."

The twenty year old National Guards of the capital and Buenos Aires province are in luck, as it appears to be decided that the Principality of Curumalan is to be their manoeuvring ground. There is not a fairer spot in the republic than Curumalan in autumn weather, and no better one could possibly have been selected for teaching the young military idea how to shoot, march and countermarch. The recruits will also grow fat on the juicy beef and mutton to be had there.

Is the big loan of a thousand millions of francs which France is about to issue a war loan, or only to wipe out the Floating Debt? Such a huge loan all of a sudden is certainly a bit of a surprise.

Engineer Luiggi had a general look-round at La Plata port on Wednesday. He thinks it a passable mercantile port but says the wharves are shaky and the sea-wall not worth a button. He says a lot of money will have to be spent to fix it up all round. This is pleasant intelligence for the province and the London Bondholders who keep their longing eyes on that port as their last chance of getting a red cent.

The arrest of three Russian officers in Hong-Kong as spies is not a reassuring sign of the times. They were caught making sketches of the fortifications, but were let off with a fine, a rather mild punishment. Hong-Kong is not a particularly pleasant place at present for spies or anybody else, as the bubonic plague is raging fearfully there and carrying off its victims like flies.

The Butler murder case at Montevideo has suddenly appeared again like Banquo's ghost. Ensign Almeida, who is in jail on suspicion, has made revelations that drag into the case several people of high social position, so something scalding hot may be expected very shortly.

Ex-President Harrison of the United States is going to be married again, to his deceased wife's niece. The ex-ruler of the Great Republic adopted an original way of announcing the happy event to his friends and the public. On the 24th of last month he summoned the New York reporters to the Fifth Avenue Hotel and formally announced that he would marry Mrs. Dimmick, of New York, after Lent. Mrs. Harrison has been dead three years. Mrs. Dimmick was her favourite niece, and had the President's confidence on official matters. When his former supporters turned against him, Mr. Harrison relied on Mrs. Dimmick's judgment, and it was well known that she was frequently familiar with the President's intentions before his Cabinet learned of them. The Harrisons are Presbyterians.

We call the attention of our sporting readers to an advertizement offering a Collie dog for sale. It must be a treasure as its mother was sold for a thousand guineas.

A true prophet in the Lottery line has been a want felt ever since Lotteries were started, which was a rather considerable time ago. A mathematical Wiggins has, however, at last appeared in the disenchanted capital of the Queen Province, and makes his debut with the following forecast about the two last figures of the number that will win the "grande" in tomorrow's Lottery. He says either 97, 75 or 29 will be the figures, so those who want to win should rush about town today and secure all the tickets they can with the above "terminaciones". The new prophet believes thoroughly in his own powers, as he offers to lay all comers two to one that one of the above three figures will turn up as the tail of the big prize.

Times cannot be so very bad in La Plata as some people represent them, as the upper crust there are about to start a new Club. There was a meeting the other day at Mr. Albert Huergo's house to consider the matter. The new club will be of the social order, and fair Platense dames and damsels see visions of grand balls in the coming winter.

Our transplatine brother of the ball-pointer found the following in a Manchester paper:—At a dinner-party at which an Englishman, a German, and a Frenchman were present the Frenchman rose and said, "Here's to France, the sun of the world." Then rose the Teuton, and he gave "Germany, the moon of the world." For a moment the Englishman was embarrassed. Then, with a felicitous flash of wit, he said, "Here's to England, the Joshua who commanded the sun and moon to stand still!" We strongly suspect that the Englishman was an Irishman.

The mania for divorce, or separation, has become an absolute epidemic. Yesterday three fresh cases were before the courts, one of them against a lady who is not married a fortnight, and who began her tricks with the gentleman in the case a couple of days after the wedding. In the other two cases the wives are the injured parties.

The doctors again! Still another wonderful lymph, this time to cure that scourge of civilized humanity, typhoid fever. A Paris physician, Dr. Sing-Mass, (Chantemesse) is the discoverer.

Beware, railway managers and station masters, and keep grease, orange and banana peels and other slippery substances off your station platforms. The Rev. William Yates, Vicar of Worleston, Cheshire, obtained judgment in the Queen's Bench Division last month against the London and North Western Railway for 700l., as damages for injuries he sustained in falling at Crewe Station in June, 1895, through the presence of grease on the platform.

Special Notices.

The South America Annual Conference of the M. E. Church was formally opened by the observance of the Lord's Supper on Wednesday evening. After the sacrament appropriate addresses of welcome and response were made. Revd. J. W. Fleming was introduced and spoke of the fraternal feeling existing between the Churches.

Yesterday's session was occupied in the election of officers and hearing the reports of Presiding Elders. Dr. T. B. Wood and J. H. Nelson. At one o'clock a sumptuous lunch was served in the Lecture Hall.

Last night an interesting platform meeting was held, in which stirring addresses were made by Dr. J. F. Thomson and Revd. W. Tallon. Stirring discussions followed the addresses.

To-day the reports of Presiding Elders and Ministers will be continued. At 9.30 the Lay Electoral Conference will be held, at which time a delegate to the General Conference will be elected.

To-night the annual missionary sermon will be preached by Revd. A. Guelfi.

ON 'CHANGE.

Thursday, February, 27th 1896.
Gold Premium.

FIRST RING	202.80%
SECOND RING.....	204.00%

The covering operations that herald the advent of the settlement turned the current of the gold speculation this morning and gently put up the premium. The rally was inevitable, as very large amounts of gold must be bought back, and it is evident that the upward movement will continue to-morrow and Saturday. About one million gold dollars changed hands at the first ring this morning. Business for cash alone embraced four hundred thousand dollars; the premium opened hard at 202%, rose to 203.80%, and closed at 202.80%. A quarter of a million was sold for Saturday; the premium opened at 203%, rose to 204%, and closed at 203%. twenty cents above cash closing price. Two hundred thousand dollars were sold for the end of March; the premium opened at 206.50%, rose to 207.50%, and closed at 206.50%—nearly four points contango. A small business was done for end of April at 210.50% and 210% premium. The gold market this morning rose slowly but steadily, and heavy amounts sold short still remain to be covered. There seemed to be to-day much less inclination to sell on time, and the big operators are now going slow; they want to see the results of Saturday's monthly settlement before they resume the bearish campaign on a big scale. Wise men!

Telegrams from London announce that Argentines are still booming in Capel Court under a sharp and steady demand. Railway shares and Railway Debentures are the favorites of the greedy investing public, stocks having fallen off slightly. On'Change we remark a weaker feeling in all paper stocks, the London demand having fizzled. National Cedulas F were quoted this morning at 84¼, but the market closed at 85. La Plata Cedulas held out well at 19.30; the Series P were quoted at 20. Catalinas shares wavered at 5, broke down to 4.80, and closed at 4.90. Nothing was reported in Municipal or Internal Bonds; holders are watching the Germans carefully, expecting them to enter the market at any moment to sweep in a haul of all these paper stocks. If the big bears are resolved to continue their operation for a fall in gold, we may rest assured that they will buy stocks on a heavy scale; this dual operation, a speciality of the German houses, has given splendid results of late.

At the ring this morning there was much talk about the prospects of the wheat export of this year. It was said that the very unfavorable telegrams sent from here this week actually put up the price of wheat in the world's great markets, which we readily believe as Argentina is the dark steeple-chaser in the wheat race. We think, however, that the aggregate losses are very much exaggerated. Making all due allowance for a heavy shortage in Entre Rios and in Santa Fé it does seem a little absurd to calculate a 50% falling-off. Even granted that 50 % has been lost in North and and Centre of Santa Fé and in Entre Rios, the Buenos Ayres crop will be up to the mark and of excellent quality. As there are no reliable statistics in the matter, all calculations are guess-work and in some cases very misleading. Dr. Latzina, Head of the National Statistical Department, should suggest to the Government the imperious necessity of a Bureau of Agricultural Statistics: this is now feasible enough on the basis of the Census figures of last year.

Another interesting topic of discussion at the ring is how far the fall in gold affects the Budget figures of this year. The calculation is simple enough, viz:—

Budget	Gold at 300.	Gold at 320.
Expenses..	152,455,000	155,618,000
Revenue ..	135,014,000	141,297,000
Deficit	17,441,000	14,321,000

Gold at 250.

The death of Mr. John Hughes, one of the oldest produce brokers on'Change, spread a gloom over the Bolsa. Deceased was universally esteemed and respected and well known in this market for the last fifty years.

Paper money rules in stiff demand, and first class trade pagarés are offering at the banks at 8 per cent. The movement in produce is very strong, and also a new stir in stocks is noticed, and hence the fresh demand for paper money.

In reply to a communication about the new National Cedulas F. we may state that they are 7 per cent, and only issued on the very best rent paying properties, and considered the best investing stock to be had to-day in this market.

Exchange in Rio fell to-day and closed at 8%. It is thought this will not affect our exchange market, but it always tells on the beef men, as the price of beef shows no corresponding rise.

Exchange here rules the same as yesterday, no scarcity of bills and plenty of takers but in Montevideo rates are higher than here and some of our banks here took in Montevideo to-day.

£ 100,000 stg. to London and River Plate Bank.

There is very disheartening news from Sweet Tucuman. The crisis produced such a thinning in the plantations that, followed up by the drought in December, the output of cane this year will be about half, certainly not much more, of that of last season. Thus in Cruz Alta 1,200 squares more or less have been thrown out of cane altogether, whilst 500 more or less promise such a poor yield that they count for nothing. In the department La Capital about 300 have been thrown out of cultivation, and a like number so poorly looked after that they promise nothing. In the Southern departments, similarly, almost the same features prevail, so that as regards excess of production things will probably run the other way this time, pointing to a deficit instead of a surplus. It is strange that the planters should not have taken this into account in working up the "ring," as it will probably save all the bother on this head. Of course in the other cane-growing provinces and districts things are not so bad, perhaps not bad at all, but as they are not likely to have gone into the business on an increased scale, and as Tucuman overshadows the crowd, the failure of the latter's crop will have full weight. It looks like a corrective of Nature herself. The worst of it is that it probably means high prices for consumers, especially if the surplus is all exported and nothing left to make up the prospective shortage.

As we reported a few days ago there is considerable alarm in the province of Buenos Ayres over the appearance of the phylloxera in the vineyards, as it has been found at Villa Eliza in all its nudity. A batch of agricultural engineers was immediately called on to study and report, and a circular forthwith drawn up ordering the Alcaldes to revise all the vineyards in their respective districts and to report any suspicious cases. The owners of vineyards are, furthermore, advised that in their own interest they should not try to screen or conceal the pest when it makes its appearance, as the safety of all depends on its thorough eradication.

With regard to the new colony in the Neuquen to which we alluded in this column yesterday, the decree officially giving it birth may be expected at any moment, as all the details are arranged. It will have a total area of 50 square leagues, divided into 200 farms of 625 hectares each. The exact situation is Section XXXIII, fraction B.

The Centro Azucarero held its annual general meeting yesterday. The report being read and approved. This report attributes the crisis in the trade to overproduction and the disunion amongst the producers that balked all attempts of coping with the difficulty fairly. The new board of directors was then elected, being as follows:—Dr. Miguel M. Nougues, President; Sr. Santiago Gallo, vice-President, Sres. Mauricio Mayer, Federico Portalis and Juan Videla, vocales; Sres. Otto Bemberg, Teodoro De Bary and Juan Calzada, substitutes.

The preparations for the great Ligurian wine show are steaming ahead. The works in the Pabellon Argentino have been already commenced under the very able direction of Engineer Maraini, and it is calculated that by April everything will be ready. The Customs' Committee to arrange details of the exhibits sent from abroad met to-day to discuss system of disembarking, inspection &c. The exhibition promises to be a great success and will mark an epoch in this line.

Advices from the Great Southern valley report that it has rained cats and dogs there, figuratively speaking of course, and the camps are in splendid order. Mr. Andrés Jones and family have arrived down from their fine estancia at Choele-Choel, formerly the property of the late General Pulmari Diaz, and are now staying at Mr. Kincaid's house in the Carmen, facing the Plaza.

As the moratorium law of the Provincial Bank has been promulgated and many may have lost sight of the provisions of this law we reproduce the salient points: The Province guarantees the bonds issued by the bank; no interest will be paid on judicial deposits and the bank must confine itself to keeping such deposits for repayment when called upon; the bank can receive assets from its debtors to cancel the sums due, but always with assent of two thirds of the board; the deposit certificates will be received for 90% of the amortization, the remaining 10% and the interest to be paid cash, but if the debt is being totally paid off or if double the amortization designated by the law be made then the bank will have to accept, in the former case, full sum in certificates, and in latter case the whole amortization in this kind; the bank will not charge over 4% annual interest nor a quarterly amortization exceeding 2½% of capital; those indebted to the bank in gold can convert at the rate of 2 ro 1 and those in arrears can set their accounts square by capitalizing and then take advantage of the provisions of this law. These are the principal items.

Angels and Ministers of Finance defend us! An evening colleague is responsible for the curt but very significant item—we were about to say news—anent the Provincial Mortgage Bank, that this establishment is in a very disastrous condition. The market has been aware for some time past that its state was not precisely flourishing, and as the next meeting of the board there will be a minute report presented all interested in the business will be in a position to judge if our colleague's remarks are to the point or not. In all probability they are not wide of the mark. But the main difficulty is to get hold of any data or reliable information at all, as what little is published throws the very faintest glimmer on a very tangled business. The pity is that it should be so. It only makes people all more noncaptious and sceptical.

The difficulty about getting the wheat seed for the Santa Fé farmers now is the price, as the pretensions of holders are considered very extreme, though the samples offered are really first class. It seems that the best offer as yet received, is 15,000 quintals put aboard at Bahia Blanca at 7.60. The Santa Fé Government has appointed Messrs. Grandoli, and Clusellas, two very practical men, to look after this business, and this appointment gives the greatest satisfaction.

Our ever interesting colleague La Agricultura, came to hand so late to-day that we had only time to skim through it. It opens with an optimistic leader on our economic convalescence, another on clandestine mining, apropos of the amended mining code, a disquisition on alcohol production and a host of others, our bucolic colleague seeming to get more burly and voluminous every week. May its "sombra" never grow less!

The gold market continued active and steady at the second ring, about seven hundred thousand dollars changing hands. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars were sold for to-morrow's delivery; the premium opened at 202½%, rose to 204.30% and closed at 204%. The premium for the end of the month closed at 204,30%, and for end of March at 208%, for end of April at 210½%. National Cedulas F. were stationary at 84½, buyers, sellers at 85, Catalinas at 4.80.

With regard to a paragraph in our last anent export of dairy produce, we received the following communication to-day:

ARGENTINE BUTTER.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

Dear Sir,—

The extract published in to-day's "On 'Change" column is slightly incorrect.

We, being the pioneers and principal exporters, conjointly with the Messrs. Ellis, Kwlingbury and Co. London, of this product, have shipped to the English market some 600 tons, our average being 100 tons per month; say 90% of the total export.

Therefore we should say that 660 tons would be a more correct estimate.

Yours very truly,
Stearn, Morris y Co.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

The difference between the markets here and those of Europe is becoming more marked every day. While one is steady the other is weak, the fluctuations in gold premium have done a lot to disheartened exporters. The rapid changes in our markets shows a want of stability. According to news from abroad it is stated that the North American and Australian crops are far below the expected ratio. Montevideo takes its cue from this source and informs cereal men that owing to the severe losses in the Argentine wheat crop this year, the article has gone up in that centre! The prices paid for wheat to-day speak for themselves; the consumo refuses to allow outsiders to walk in, its prices are far beyond the grasp of the most enterprising exporter—this does not confirm the arguments of outsiders.

Wool, the principal feature in the markets, was weak to-day. A doleful look was visible amongst sellers; cablegrams brought news of a fall in the exterior markets, obliging "consignatarios" to sell at even lower prices than yesterday.

Messrs. Devoto, Balbiani and Co. sold the following parcels this morning:—

20,000 kilos fine wool from the West at 7.80 and 8; 40,000 do "pasto fuerte" from the Pampa at 6.50 and 6.70; 85,000 do lambs wool mixed at 6 and 7.50, with "caretilla" from 5 to 5.50; 10,000 cross-Lincoln at 8,50; 12.000 do fine from Pampa Central from 5.50 to 5.80; 70,000 do from Entre Rios at 7.80 and 8.40 and 6,000 inferior at 7 and 7.50.

Sheepskins are down so low here that the following results of the Liverpool auctions will be interesting. Auctions in sheepskins were held on the 17th ultimo when 1,535 bales were brought forward, but buyers were not quite as numerous as usual, and the very heavy condition of most of the Buenos Aires parcels restricted the demand, so that only 800 bales were placed at ½d. per lb. under the good prices made at the last auctions in September. The chief difficulty in the way of business still lies in the extremely stagnant state of the markets for prepared pelts, of which stocks are heavy, and as against a rise fully 30 to 60% on good selections established last Autumn, the nominal value now stands at only about 20 to 30% over the very worst period just twelve months ago. We quote three-quarter to full-woolled Buenos Aires Merino and No. I at about 4¼d per lb., Crossbreds and Lincolns about 5¼ to 5½d. per lb., fair Merino and No. 1 Montevideo well-woolied 5d. to 5½d per lb., and inferiors in proportion.

The Rosario markets seem resolved not to change; the present painful position has knocked all ambition out of the exporters. The first cause was put down to the fall in gold, to-day the shout is that owing to the departure of 70 vessels loaded with wheat, a greater depression has come over the markets. In the general routine produce men are all the more pleased when they see exports brisk, however, some people are never content. A sale of 7,000 quintals of wheat was concluded yesterday at 7.10, the buyer was from Buenos Aires. Business was greatly restricted owing to exporters having met their contracts, and are now waiting for a favourable chance to drop in. Maize is checkmated, the only operations reported were 2,500 quintals at 3.10, and another of 6,000 bags at 2.85. If it were not for the Buenos Aires buyers the market for this article could easily close its doors, as the local exporters do not operate.

From bad to worse. Linseed is so dull that a few words are quite sufficient to give the details. The market offers 9.50 and 9.60, but finds no sellers. A few "puchitos" are sold, but they are too insignificant to change the market.

Yesterday's activity in the Montevidean markets is well accentuated to-day. The cause of this firmness is due to the great falling off in the Argentine crops. "Aprovecheo." Who knows if the rumours are not concocted by a speculator; it is rather early to form a decided opinion on the Argentine wheat crop. At any rate the prices paid for wheat in Buenos Aires are far ahead of those paid in this market. Some 8,300 bags were sold to-day at 2.40 and 2.65, the rise in rates being only 3 cents. Maize is quiet, the exporters are working on a slow, but sure scale, the demand, however, is not as brisk as formerly, 2,500 bags were sold at prices from 1 to 1.05. The Fray Bentos saladero made an important transaction in live stock; from 10 to 13 gold dollars was paid for full grown steers.

The wool barracas are quickly emptying themselves, the parcels find easy outlet, inferior classes being preferred 3 and 3.10 were the latest prices; some 16,000 kilos were sold at prices from 2.40 to 2.55 per 10 kilos.
